Music Video Art Director and Location Scout (Downtown)

Looking for independent minded Art Director to work on upcoming music video August 23 - 26. A multi-tasker with a knowledge of wardrobe and makeup (not expecting you to do the makeup) is great, also the ability to hustle and barter is huge, being that we have a miniscule budget. The band is awesome, the track is from their second album, and they are well known in Vancouver. If we work well together a crew position on a funded feature being shot in October is a promise.

Looking for a location scout as well. Somebody who knows Vancity and has a lead on some abandoned buildings, would be ideal. If this happens to be the same person as the interested Art Director; you are my hero and will be treated as such.

Please send a link to a demo of some sort, or IMDB page. Enjoying any of these bands would probably be a plus as well; Black Flag, Marilyn Manson, NIN. CHEERS!

Facial Animator - 4 month Contract Electronic Arts (Burnaby)

ENTERTAINING IS OUR PASSION

EA was founded 25 years ago by individuals with a deep passion for making games. Many things have changed over the years as the gaming industry—and the company—has expanded immensely, but we are still driven by the same passion for developing, publishing, and distributing the world's best games. Our history has been one of great success, and our future looks even brighter. Gaming has come a long way from Pac-Man & Space Invaders to modern EA Favourites like Burnout, Battlefield, Mercenaries, Dead Space, Spore, FIFA, Madden, Need for Speed and the world's most successful game franchise, The Sims. Fuelled by our talented staff at locations right across the Globe we are united in our passion to continue shaping the future of interactive entertainment. Together we can make a difference.

Creating visually stunning, immersive games is an art that takes a tremendous amount of skill and talent. EA artists are responsible for creating the visual elements of a game, such as characters, scenery, objects, vehicles, surface textures, clothing, and even user interface components. Other Artists bring the game to life with Animation, Lighting and Visual effects and draw the gamer into an immersive experience where they can suspend disbelief and emotionally connect with the game and enjoy the ride. Some games go for a look that's as realistic as possible, while others aim for a more stylized or fantastical look. In the end, the look of a game is one of the most significant factors contributing to the overall success of the game.

Role Overview - Facial Animator - 4 month Temporary Full Time

We require a facial animator that has 3-5 years' experience minimum in purely facial animation. Ideally with a film and game background and someone who has worked with realistic facial animation, not solely animation of a cartoony nature. We'd need to see a very strong resume and a very strong reel. This person would be responsible for taking facial animation to 100% once the outsourcers deliver it back to us.

Animators are responsible for portraying movement and behavior. Most often their skill is used to give life to game characters and creatures, but sometimes animations are also applied to objects, scenery, vegetation, environmental effects, and other objects. Animators must be able to create emotionally believable characters that allow game players to interact with the game, whether photorealistic or stylized, in a realistic and believable fashion. Think of a game like Madden? NFL Football, for example. When the game player intercepts a pass and scores a touchdown, they expect the animated action to be a realistic representation of the action they'd see in real life.

EA Animators use specialized software packages, including Maya and Max, to create the animations for both in-game behavior as well as and predefined sequences (or cut scenes). Animators need a strong understanding of classic animation principles such as staging, squash and stretch, timing, anticipation, follow through, exaggeration, arcs, etc., as well as an intrinsic ability for storytelling.
