

LLRX.com - Websites, blogs, wikis & extranets

<http://www.llrx.com/taxonomy/term/1058/0>

---

The Legal Profession and Five Responses to Technology

Lawyer, writer and blogger Nicole Black's informed commentary reminds fellow professionals that technology and the Internet are here to stay.

<http://www.llrx.com/features/fiveresponses.htm>

---

The Social Networking Titans: Facebook and MySpace

With this article, librarians Deborah Ginsberg and Meg Kribble raise awareness about the different features provided by these services, and their respective impact on students, lawyers, public users, fellow professionals, and other patrons.

<http://www.llrx.com/features/facebookmyspace.htm>

---

Five Things Lawyers Should Know About Social Media

Lawyer, writer and blogger Nicole Black advises fellow professionals about important core techniques and goals to consider before jumping on the "social media" bandwagon.

<http://www.llrx.com/features/lawyersandsocialmedia.htm>

---

Navigating the Enterprise 2.0 Highway

Heather Colman provides an overview of Hicks Morley's implementation of ThoughtFarmer, an Enterprise 2.0/wiki style intranet platform, one year ago. Despite a few growing pains, she describes how the application was successful at meeting the primary objectives to decentralize content updates and increase knowledge sharing and collaboration within the firm.

<http://www.llrx.com/features/enterprisehighway.htm>

---

DoNotCall.gov: Do Not Call it up With Firefox

Roger V. Skalbeck examines and illustrates usability issues on the FTC's Do Not Call Registry, a very popular e-gov site that has design errors impeding complete content accessibility when users choose non-Microsoft browsers.

<http://www.llrx.com/features/donotcall.htm>

---