Beware of the typical at home typing "jobs"

On the surface, it sounds so easy. Make gobs of money by working at one of those home typist jobs you hear so much about. What's not to like? You get to work in the comfort of your own home, set your own hours and make good coin without the stress of the typical office environment. But the truth is, most of these jobs are not all they're cracked up to be, and in many cases, turn out to be outright scams carried out by unscrupulous individuals who do nothing more than steal your hard-earned money and disappear into cyberspace, never to be heard from again.

In many cases, home typist jobs are nothing more than spamming. You will be sending out tons of unsolicited emails, only to be paid a pittance in those rare instances where somebody actually takes the bait and opens the email. Usually, your email will simply disappear into a spam folder, never to be read. And you'll no doubt end up annoying people who are tired of getting another one of those "get rich quick" emails, and you might end up getting yourself in a little hot water for violating ant-spam policies.

Often, what will happen when you respond to an ad for home typist jobs is that you will be required to pay an up-front fee, say, $50, and in a few weeks you will receive in the mail a list of names that you could have easily gotten out of a phone directory yourself. Then it's up to you to make the contacts and offer your typing services. In most cases, these companies will have no need whatsoever for your services, and aren't even aware of the existence of the company that supposedly contacted them about the need for typing services. Meanwhile, your $50 is gone in a puff of smoke.

And the ironic thing about many home typist jobs is that the tables are often turned on the typist. Once these scam companies get a hold of your email address, it is often sold to other scam artists for a handsome profit. Before you know it, your Inbox will be inundated with all kinds of other illegitimate work-at-home opportunities, so you will become turn from being a ?spammer? to a ?spammee.?

Fortunately, there is a much easier way to make great money typing at home. Freeland Home Writers gives a complete list of legit companies hiring freelance typists.

Legit Online Jobs Review

Ken Crawford asked: I would like to review and recommend a product I have been using that makes me money month after month: Legit Online Jobs! I know you have seen my ads here and elsewhere promoting this product. Its for a very good reason. This product is great and makes money whether you are an experienced affiliate marketer or just beginning! The model or techniques taught in Legit Online Jobs will benefit both the beginners and experienced users. AND you can apply them to ANY program or product you market in the future. If you have been buying one product after another and are still at the lost? THEN you must stop buying and apply the Legit Online Jobs?s model. This isn?t your typical typist job. You just can?t earn this kind of money doing normal typing. This is like a freelance opportunity. You type up and submit the ads on your own schedule, day or night, and you do as many as you want with no restrictions. There will always be work for you to do no matter where you live. This is a successful money-making system with unlimited potential. I?ll show you all the steps to the exact system I use to make money posting ads for companies online. It runs virtually on autopilot. Once your ads are submitted, they?ll be making money for you over and over. In other words, you don?t need to be in front of your computer to be earning. That?s the beauty of this system. How much You can earn? Most companies will pay by check twice a month (on the 1st and 16th) and some will pay via Paypal. You can also be paid via wire transfer or direct deposit if your earnings are above $2000 per month. These payments come like clockwork. You get paid on time, every time. You will also be able to login at any time during the day to check your stats and keep track of how much you have made in real-time. The last thing I want to say is this: There is A LOT of FREE information on ALL KINDS of jobs in here as well. Not to mention the DOZENS of FREE E-Books that you will not only have access to but also can get the RESELL rights to. This is by far the BEST program I have teamed up with and will stay at the top of my list.

Find a Scam Free Data Entry Job

Diane asked: The idea of working in the virtual world is definitely enticing. Imagine the comfort and convenience that you will get to enjoy by working at your own preferred time and space. There are plenty of online jobs available online, but work from home data entry jobs have always been the hot favorite. With the intensive competition nowadays, more and more companies are looking for different ways to cut down costs, causing the rise in the number of work from home data entry jobs. Companies are looking for methods to cut excess costs and by simply creating work from home data entry jobs, these companies no longer need to pay the employee various benefits that are required when staffing an office. While you are in the hurry to get yourself hooked up with data entry jobs, do keep a look out for scams that are usually sent through emails. You might have queries about the reliability of working online. While most data entry jobs are deemed relatively safe, there are still scam jobs out there. So, do be careful when planning to join a company. Take note: There are some free data entry jobs and there are some who charge an upfront fee. There are dozens of places where you can look for work from home data entry opportunities for free to start. However, sometimes they will can hit you with hidden fees down the road or do not provide the kind of help and guidance as a paid site would. If there is the need sometimes, you might need to pay reputable companies money to get you a high paying data entry job. To prevent yourself from falling into a giant rat trap, it is advised that you check into any company you are considering working with. This is to ensure that any data entry job that you take up is legitimate. If you are not a skilled typist, then fret not. Not all employers would have that set of expectations. Some might want you to enter certain data only. What is more important is that you have an eye for detail and are able to enter data quickly with precision. If you are equipped with the right kind of skills, you will find these data entry jobs a breeze. So what are the tasks required for a data entry work at home job? They include tasks like: filling envelopes, forms, sheets, creating reports, processing data, copying data, listing down information and such. If you are unsure of your skills, do check out several websites for guides and tips on using certain software like Microsoft Word, Excel and NotePad. These 3 programmes are the more popular ones that are usually used for data entry. Master these 3 programmes as they can be pretty handy for data entry work. Work from home data entry jobs are very popular, just like other home-based jobs. It is amazing that you can simply earn up to $500 just by doing light work. And not to mention the time, energy and money saved from commuting to and from work. But of course, the amount of money that you get at the end of the day would largely depend on how work and the effort you put in. It would require some kind of discipline and consistency when you choose to devote yourself to online data entry. Spending a few hours working EACH DAY is not that hard to do. Do this well, and you would have an easy time earning a decent income.

Work At Home Typing Jobs - How To Snag One

Amber Lowery asked:

Home typing is a great way to work from home, and earn decent money. Many home typists consider it to be one of the most straightforward and actually enjoyable home based careers.

As a home typist, you should have basic computer and typing skills. There are opportunities available for those who are looking to work both part time and full time, although it's often easier to find jobs that start you out part time.

The hardest part of being a home typist is finding the home typing jobs in the first place. This article will start you off with some tips to aid you in your search for the perfect home typing job.

Home Typing Job Tip #1

Browse the top classifieds sites daily for new home typing job opportunities. Craigslist.com often has listings for those hard to find work at home jobs. Another little known resource is Backpage.com which is very similar to Craigslist. If your search turns up nothing, don't be discouraged ? search again tomorrow, you never know when the perfect job offer will turn up.

Home Typing Job Tip #2

Have your resume ready. A resume won't always be necessary but it is good to have for the times that you do need it. Also, make sure that you have it digitally as this is most likely how you will be sending it to prospective employers.

Home Typing Job Tip #3

Test and know your typing speed. There are many self tests online that you can take to determine your typing speed. Remember, efficiency is only part of it ? you must be accurate as well.

Home Typing Job Tip #4

Webmasters are frequently in need of home typists to assist in content publishing. Try looking for home typing jobs at webmaster job boards such as scriptlance.com, and rentacoder.com. Additionally, webmaster forums may seem like an unlikely place to find home typing jobs, but they are great resources too.

Home Typing Job Tip #5

Never give up. This may sound funny, but it can take quite awhile to find the perfect home typing job. Stay diligent and research frequently. Soon enough, you will find the perfect match.

As you can tell, with patience and diligence, you can find that perfect job and work from home as a home typist.

Finding Internet Typing Jobs

Obinna Heche asked: If you are a typist with time on your hands and if you are eager to bring yourself some added cash, then you might want to find internet typing jobs. What are internet typing jobs? These are typing jobs that are posted on the internet. One way to find a list of the websites that carry such jobs is to go to ask.com. If you do that, then you might soon find yourself visiting the website freewebs.com. That particular website indicates that there is a real demand for typists who will take on the various internet typing jobs. The following paragraphs provide details on some of those jobs. If you have ever been stopped by someone in the mall or if you have been asked to take a telephone survey then you are familiar with one important internet typing job. You are also familiar with the basic method for market research. Companies depend on market research to learn what the consumer wants. The volume of information obtained from such research needs to be typed into a report. Some internet writing jobs call for a typist who knows how to type up such reports. Once companies determine what interests their customers, then they want to communicate with their customers. Many companies do that by using newsletters sent to each customer's e-mail address. The companies seldom ask a company secretary to type up such newsletters. They tend to enter their request for a newsletter typist among the many posted internet writing jobs. The list of internet typing jobs goes on and on. Some companies need a typist to help with the printing of ads. Some companies desire typists who will supply them with well-typed welcome e-mails. These are sent to those customers who sign up for the company's newsletter. Other companies seem more interested in finding someone to type up information lists. Information lists are not the only sort of list that company administrators want to see. Such administrators also want access to mailing lists, i.e. the list of customers who are receiving either the company newsletter or the company catalogue. Sometimes the administrators want a list of ordered items. Typed lists of software orders are a frequent need among company administrators. Typed lists of any kind supply the company administrators with valuable information. While the customers are studying the company website to obtain information about the company's products, the company administrators are studying the many typed lists. If the available lists fail to supply the necessary information, then those administrators are apt to seek funds for more internet typing jobs. Typing, like writing, is vital to the creation of an online presence. Accurate typing insures the delivery of easy to read and adequate information. Good writing adds color and interest to that information. To Your Success

Home Typing Jobs - 7 Things You Should Know

Diane asked: Legitimate home typing jobs do still exist, however, with all the rift raft on the internet today and so many scams floating around it makes them very difficult to find. There are several types of home typing jobs such as administrative jobs, medical transcription, article writing and then there is your ad pasting jobs. However, your old fashion data entry jobs differ quite a bit from your new age ad pasting and form submission jobs. Your traditional home typing/data entry work can be very time consuming and the pay isn't all that great. However, With non traditional typing jobs you can make a pretty substantial amount of money just by submitting ads. Reported incomes from these types of endeavors range from $300-500+ per day. Whichever type of work you are looking for online whether it be the basic employee type of position or your popular business opportunity you must still be aware of scams. A good tell tell sign of a bad company would be to see how long they been been in business. There are a lot of "fly by night" companies that don't last very long which is a good indication that they weren't doing business on the up and up.A Few Tips On How to Spot a Possible Scam - 1 - A short standing business - 1 year or less.2 - No contact form on their website. (big red flag) I've seen this many times.3 - A company that does not respond to your emails.4 - A low page rank website - They should at least rank at a 3 and up. This is a good indication that they will be around for awhile.What a Legitimate Home Typing or Data Entry Company Should Offer -1 - Reliable email assistance - Make sure to ask specific questions before joining.2 - Earning disclaimer page - Should have this page and should not make promises of wealth in their disclaimer. (Double Red Flag)3 - A testimonial section on their website from at least 3 current members of the program. I admit, finding a legitimate online job could be a nightmare. Pretty much like finding a needle in a haystack, however, if you look for the basic tips I have provided above, this should narrow things down a bit. A good home typing or data entry company to join should provide step by step guidance, reliable customer support, tutorials, and a working email where they can be reached non stop if possible or at least within the normal business hours. For more information on a recommended home typing job and long standing company visit my resource box below.

Job Center Tip: Avoid the 10 Losers!

Paul Megan asked: In our job center, we encourage a reality check before you head into the job market. Realistically knowing what your job search options are is half the battle. If you can gravitate toward a career and job where you know in advance there are growing opportunities you're way ahead of the game. By the same token, guiding yourself away from job situations that are declining and avoiding employment areas where there is negative growth can give you much more confidence in your career choices. Here are the top 10 jobs with the largest projected losses (according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics): 1. Farmers and ranchers. 2. Order clerks. 3. Tellers. 4. Insurance-claim and -policy processing clerks. 5. Word processors and typists. 6. Sewing machine operators. 7. Dishwashers. 8. Switchboard operators, including answering services. 9. Loan interviewers and clerks. 10. Computer operators. If you're a recent high school or college grad, or you're breaking into the job market for the first time as an entry-level worker, these are the first areas you ought to avoid. If you're recently retired and wish to get back into the workplace, these opportunities are less promising for you. Regardless of your current situation, if you're planning to go into the job market this year and you haven't been there recently, things have changed! Especially since 9/11 and Katrina. The old-fashioned, traditional methods are out. Using them can extend your job search from weeks to months. These days the most effective methods are the new 21st Century alternative and non-traditional techniques. The good news is there's a fabulous job search system available to you that can have you entertaining job offers in as little as two weeks. This is the year to turn your job search into the career adventure of a lifetime with stunning new alternative strategies!

Data Entry Jobs : What Types of Jobs Exist and is There Money to Make?

Alan Lim asked: Typing Data entry jobs related to typing are the most common. Almost any subject and genre of business has need for typing working. Many of these jobs are easily commissioned out to home workers. The most needed credentials are attention to detail, a good command of English language, structure, punctuation and spelling and absolute accuracy in the above areas as well. Typing jobs sent to home workers come from small businesses who don't have enough work to warrant hiring an employee. They also come from large businesses that have learned the economic advantages to contract work. Many businesses of all sizes can realize advantages through contracting typing work and other data entry projects. Editing Another of the data entry jobs which are able to be transported to home based businesses is that of editing previously typed or prepared materials for accuracy. Even the most careful typist will occasionally make syntax errors or punctuation errors that are difficult to perceive when reading back over the typed work. However, if an editor looks at the work, such errors usually jump out at the reader. For work that is critically important for accuracy, an editor can be employed to review previously completed work for accuracy and completeness. Every company wants finished written products under the name of the company to be something to be proud of. Statistical Data entry jobs in the statistical field usually go to home based workers who are fast on a calculator or keyboard. These jobs often involve entering names and addresses in a database or making revisions to existing database fields. As may be expected, absolute accuracy is of critical importance in this type of work. Sometimes the entries are done twice by different workers and then the work is checked through a merge and correct software program to further ensure accuracy. If you are the type of worker who wants a little excitement in your project, this kind of work may not work well for you, since it tends to be routine and repetitive. Transcription If you are good at typing and familiar with syntax and spelling in the English language, transcription data entry jobs may be just the answer for you. A transcriptionist listens to recorded audio or video materials and types out what is being said so that there is a written record of the spoken word. Transcription of radio shows or interviews and of teleseminar conferences and calls are becoming quite common amongst marketing experts. Transcription typists are paid either by the audio hour or by the typewritten page and can do quite well financially in preparing such material. Medical Data entry jobs in the medical field are highly specialized. This is because there are so many medical terms that may be unfamiliar to the general public. A misspelling in a medical term can create all sorts of legal and medical entanglements. These workers usually are responsible for transcribing case notes that have been dictated by medical professionals and serve as a written documentation of patient care and diagnosis.

Online Typing Jobs - Work From Home Typing is a Viable Option!

Tess Tackett asked: Searching for online typing jobs? You are one of millions! Work from home typing is one of the most popular options for working at home. There are many options available to you. Here are some of the best. Of course, if you are going to make money typing, you should be a decent typist and have good spelling and grammar skills. Other than that, there aren't many requirements for this kind of work. The pay depends upon your skills and what option you choose. Online typing jobs can be anything from working for yourself to working online for an employer. Here is some more information about the different kinds of work available:

1. Freelance writing - This is my choice, I make money as a ghost writer every day. If you are good at writing (and even if you aren't that great), you can make money writing content for other people. Doing research online allows you to get information on any topic, and write about it. You then type up your articles, blog posts, etc. and send them to your client. Easy money!
2. Online Job Database - These are the kind of online typing jobs most people are searching for. Employers are looking for employees to do various kinds of work such as data entry, transcription, administrative jobs and more. These jobs are harder to find, unless you join a membership site that provides a listing of jobs to you.
3. Online Surveys - This is the easiest way to make money doing simple data entry. All you do is give your opinion - no experience necessary. If you do several high paying surveys per day, you can make some good money.

These are a few examples of the more popular online typing jobs that are available. Of course there are other options, but these are highly searched for. Many sites that promise work from home typing jobs are scams, so do your homework. Check how long the company has been in business, if there is a way to contact them, and if you can contact someone else who has joined their company to get feedback. Are you ready to make money from your own home and leave the 9 to 5 behind? You certainly can, and millions do it every day. Learn more about the best online typing jobs and get started today!
